

Executive Summary

Teaching is hard. Teaching while keeping records for compliance is harder.

Australian primary and secondary schools receiving funding through the NCCD scheme are required to keep records when they adjust or implement a teaching plan at the individual level. Failing to keep sufficient and accurate records leads to non-compliance and a loss of NCCD funding.

Lost funding due to non-compliance can cost $25,000 per student per year.

Even for schools that comply, time-consuming manual systems are often in place to gather, collate, store and report on NCCD records. This wastes staff time, expertise and wage costs that typically equate to one full-time salary.

Junipa

Easy, real-time NCCD data capture in the classroom is now possible.

With mobile devices and WiFi, 5G or 4G coverage there's an ability to collect NCCD evidence 'at the coalface', so we created a fully managed & hosted solution for teachers to record adjustments in real-time. Using Junipa, teachers can login to a web-based application with access to context-aware student lists, to quickly record an adjustment and upload any relevant attachments.

With instant reporting, the state of NCCD compliance is visible in real-time.

School admin staff have access to real-time reporting of NCCD evidence being collected so the state of compliance is continually visible in Junipa. This gives schools far greater confidence that adjustment evidence is NCCD-compliant.

Schools implementing Junipa have seen a 300% increase in NCCD funding.

With stronger confidence in their NCCD records and greater visibility, schools that have implemented Junipa have been able to move many students up an adjustment level, significantly increasing their NCCD funding and capacity to support these students. Junipa is easy for schools, effective for students.

"Junipa's team got us up and running quickly and made customisations to meet our specific needs. We're now confident of being NCCD compliant and up to date."
